You said...We did!

- More live lessons so my child can see their friends and their teacher - The teachers hosted several Microsoft Teams meetings to allow children to see their friends and share their learning.
- No access to a suitable device – we have been able to provide some families with tablets or laptops to help them access home learning.
- Online reading website can be temperamental – We decided to invest in a second online reading scheme to help parents read at home with their children.
- Struggling with Wi-Fi signals and access to the internet – We have sent home data SIM cards and Wi-Fi hotspots to those families who need them.
- Finding it difficult to navigate the remote learning systems – we have created video tutorials to support parents and families. Where suitable we also sent some paper packs to families.
- More challenging work – We sent some additional activities to those families that requested it.

"You are teaching the children the right things and explaining perfectly if they struggle."

"The timetables sent each week are great as they give us a structure for the week. Also, plenty of resources."

"My child loves seeing his teacher daily and listening to nursery rhymes and singing day and weather song."

"Getting all the work uploaded so we know what we have to do every day."

"Maintaining good correspondence via parent mail and or seesaw regarding home learning."

"The daily videos so he still feels like he has contact with his teachers."

2021

"Communication and remote learning are really good. Staff are very helpful with any questions."

"Giving the resources and making sure it's all clear and understandable."

"Video lessons are brilliant. Regular comments back on work from the teachers. The choice of app is fantastic."

"Keeping in touch, asking how the children are doing and setting a realistic amount of work."

"Good mixed activities. Available for help. Good teacher videos."

"Giving the children set tasks each day and replying to each message I send."

Communication between the family and school has been excellent. Being able to message and email through the apps any questions has been a great help when it comes to the work set weekly.
